TWENTY-THREE DEAD

The Terrible Mining Disaster a Lake Whatcom, Wash.

ACCUMULATED FIRE DAMP EXPLODED

Some Were Killed by Shock, Others Suffocated.

RECOVERING THE BODIES

SEATTLE, Wash., April 9 .- A Whateon Wash, special says: An explosion from fire damp in Blue Canon coal mine on Lake Whatcom yesterday afternoon killed twen-y-three men. The Post-Intelligencer correspondent re-The Post-Intelligencer correspondent re-turned at 2 a.m. from the scene of the ter-rible disaster in Blue Canon mine, and is in possession of all the particulars now ob-tainable. In the blacksmith shop near the tunnel lie the blacksmed bodies of twenty-three miners, while only two of all who were in the mine when the explosion oc-curred lived to tell the story of the fright-ful catastrophe and their own miraculous escape.

escape.

The explosion occurred shortly before 3 o'clock, when the shift would have been changed, and the miners were already climbing the steep hill from the bunk house to take the places of the men killed.

This gangway is reached by a tunnel 789 feet long, and the distance from the intersection of the gangway to the breast where the explosion took place is about 100 feet. From the tunnel, and air is supplied by water power, and which was not affected by the explosion.

supplied by water power, and which was not affected by the explosion.

Names of the Victims.

Following are the names of the killed: Mine Superintendent David Y. Jones, leaves wife and child; Andrew Anderson, leaves wife and one child; James McAndrews, leaves wife; James Kirkley, leaves a wife; Kirk Clinske, leaves wife and four children. All the others were single men. Their names are as follows: Charles Silverman, C. Ramsburg, William Listor, Salverman, J. A. L. T. Chase, Charles Carlson, H. Ravett, Philip Binkle, William Evans, J. Williams, Alexander Henrickson, Ben. Morgan, Geo. Roberts, Thomas Conlin, Lucas Lotaki.

The two men who escaped are Edward Gellen of Fairhaven, who was working at the outer switch in the mine, in company with George Roberts, and James Kern. The latter was working with Ben. Morgan in room 16, off the gangway at the outermost of all the works in which work was being carried on.

even thrown down by the shock, though Morgan, who was working with him, was killed.

Kern's light was not extinguished, and he saw no fire. He slid down the chute to the gangway, losing his light in some way, and managed to make his way in the darkness in some miraculous manner along the poisonous passage over dead bodies and plies of coal loosened by the explosion, to the open air, but hefore he had called the called the commenced. Out in the tunnel he met a party of brave miners groping their way inward as fast as the escape of the poisonous gas permitted.

This party, and others following, pushed their way into the mine and carried out one by one the bodies of the dead miners as they came upon them scattered along the gangway. The first body found was that of the mile-driver, bying he main entrace. From there to the fall of the gangway, a distance of about 300 feet, bodies were scattered along as they fell from the chutes leading to the rooms. Most of the bodies showed little evidence of a struggle, and in most instances death apparently came quickly.

McAndrew's body was found buried under a side of coal, and McNully was upon his holds and knees, about twenty ynds from the choice showed little evidence of a struggle, and in most instances death apparently came quickly.

CHARGE OF SAFE BLOWING THE NEW SHIPS

Desmond Held in Alexandria and Williams | Good Progress Being Made in the Preparain This City.

Working Up Several Cases Against These Men-Recent Robberies

Good progress is being made in the preparation of plans for the newly authorized battleships, gunboats and torpedo boats. The latest plans submitted to Secretary Herbert have received his tacit approval and will probably be adopted finally without material change. They differ in several ersential points from those heretofore submitted, especially in the case of the battleships. It has been said that the new battleships will resemble those of the Indiana class, now under construction. Although this is true in a general way, several important departures are proposed in the Lew vessels, According to the revised plans, they will be much longer and broader and have a greater displacement than the Indiana; their batteries will be thinner, but more generally distributed; their turret armor will be thicker in places, and in the location of the eight-inch gunturrets a decided innovation is contemplated.

John Berdheim made the legal contest for him. Detectives Horne and Wee-lon spent the of removal.

Unable to Identify.

James Fonschell, the young man, watchman at the Potomae Ferry Company's wharf, who was bound and gaged, saw both Desmond and Williams yesterday, but was unable to dientify them. He says, however, that Williams' general appearance, as well as the tone of his voice, arswers as near as he can say to the general description of one of the burglars. "Filly" Williams is still held in custody here, and today he was interviewed by Inspector Hollimberger.

The police are now of the opinion that who has been doing the sone of the men who has been doing the sone of the men who has been doing the second-story work shis city he will be looked over by persons who saw one of the burglars.

When the Jackson City raid was made and while the olikeers had Desmond in custody a man supposed to be a law officer of some kind approached the party and made the remark, "That man's all right."

"How do you know he's all right?" Detective Horne asked him.

"I know he is."

board forward. The speed will be sixteen knots, one knot greater than required of the Indiana, and the same as that of the lowa. The displacement will be 11,500 tons. Inasmuch, as the act which authorized the construction of the battleships carries no appropriation, there will encossarily be some delay in their constructors will appropriate the $8,000,000 necessary to pay for the two ships. Proposals for their construction will be invited during the coming summer, however, and every preparation made to begin the work as soon as the funds become available.

The police suspect that the safe blowers who robbed the ferry company's safe blew the safe in Clark's place at Rosslyn during the Christmas holidays, and should Desmond give ball in this case he may be arrested on suspicion of complicity in the Clark robbery. When, the Clark robbery was committed Private Detective McDevitt made an investigation, which resulted in the arrest berglar. He was, arrested by the private detective mentioned and taken to police headquarters, but the officers there refused to hold him because no warrant had been sworn out for him, and he was released.

refused to hold him because no warrant had been sworn out for him, and he was released.

Since then Detective McDevitt has told the South Washington police of the building of a boat at the civer front, which he suspected was to be used to assist crooks across the river who would operate here.

Today Detective McDevNt called at police headquarters and held a conference with inspector Holkmbesser about the sale was a similar job perpetrated at Dyer's store, in Georgetown, and in this case, as in the others, the police are satisfied that the burglars operated from the river. They realize that it is the safest way to operate, for rowing on the river in the darkness there is comparatively no danger of being seen, and then when the shore was reached the burglars had but a short distance to travel through the streets.

Miss Amy May, is also strongly intrenched in the union. The requirements for membership of this association are love of children, a good common English education, the possession of a true Christian character, refined manners, desire to improve, and good health. Mrs. Pollock first studied the kindergarten system in 1892 for the benefit of her cwn family, and established in 1894 the first kindergarten in the United States. She translated Lina Margenstern's "Parndise of Childhood," the first German kindergarten guide.

A Wonderful Escape.

While Sherman Jones was putting a charge of dynamite in a blast at Stewart's quarry, on the edge of Columbia, S.C., yesterday, it exploded without apparent cause, hurling him high in the air. Strange to say a few bruises were the extent of his 101 juries. John Daniels, another negro, was fatally injured. Several other negroes were badly hurt.

The "baby" of the federation is the Loyal Women of American Liberty. This association is also auxiliary to the national organization of the same name, having its headquerters in Boston. Mrs. I. C. Manchester is president, and Mrs. Mary H. Livermore one of the vice presidents. It was organized February 22, 1894, hence is only one year old, is purely patriotic, and has for its motto, "For God and American Liberty." The membership is not large, for no public meetings have been held in its iterests, but it has in its ranks some of the FOR SICK HEADACHE, ETC.
